INTRODUCTION

Professor Cyrus Kerawala, 61st BAOMS President

I very much look forward to welcoming you all to the 2023 BAOMS Annual Scientific Meeting. I hope that the setting will prove a convenient one for many, being as it is just a stone's throw away from King's Cross and St Pancras stations. The venue itself was opened in 2008, since when it has also housed the offices of the Guardian newspaper. For those of you who have not visited King's Cross for many a year it is now a pedestrianised haven with a vibrant array of restaurants and bars a plenty. This should minimise the delay in allowing us all to relax at the end of each day's activities.

This year's theme is 'Health and Wellbeing' and, as such, the plan is for a comprehensive programme with reasonable start and finish times so that we can catch up with friends and colleagues away from the stress of our day jobs! In addition to the usual free-paper sessions, there will be a number of parallel symposia. I have asked a host of contributors to present their thoughts on 'Things I wish I'd known before...'. These presentations are on a variety of topics relevant to both our specialty and related areas, which I hope will allow them to share a wealth of experience to guide young and old alike.

There will be more focussed sessions on Research, Orthognathic Surgery and Skin Cancer completed in a BBC 'Question Time' format – which I hope will allow ample time for audience participation. In addition, on the first afternoon there will be talks on 'Overcoming Adversity'. I am delighted that several colleagues have agreed to talk about some very personal issues, and I thank them in advance for their honesty and candour in what I am sure will be some thought-provoking presentations. The prelude to many of these sessions will be a short introduction from several who have interests outside work, to talk about activities as diverse as sculpture and rearing animals!

We shall also be tackling some thornier issues in the two eponymous lectures. Peter Duffy will be sharing his thoughts on his first-hand experience as an NHS whistle-blower in the President's lecture. Simon Fleming will round off the meeting with the Norman Rowe lecture which I know will be a full-on challenge to changing the culture in surgery. The meeting itself will close early on Friday to allow attendees the opportunity to participate in the whole conference and yet escape home in a timely manner.

In addition to the Welcome Reception on Wednesday, the annual black-tie event will take place the following evening in the splendour of the Great Hall at Lincoln's Inn Fields, preceded by drinks on the terrace outside.

The meeting I hope will be a step away from the usual format, one that will be supported by a dedicated conference App which will be available for all registered attendees. I very much hope you will make the trip to London and look forward to seeing you there.
